BASKETBALL AT THE CHRIST CHURCH ASSOCIATION

Saturday night Christ Church Ascociation won out in a hotly contested game of basketball with the Independents. The game was clean and fast, and the score of 30 to 18 in the association's favor does not indicate that the game was one-sided.

The large and enthusiastic crowd was impartial in its praise, and both sides got what was coming to them in the way of noise.

From the very first the association had the advantage. This was shown by the score of 19 to 6 in the first half. The work of Hay, Bryant and Murdock, for the home team, and of Walthall, for the visitors, was brilliant, and at times brought out much cheering. This was the first game for the C. C. Just watch the Richmond Bowling Team make a record of which we may all be

There is nothing more fascinating than to watch an expert bowler as he smashes a ball into the inoffending tempins. Incident-ally there is nothing more exhibitanting than the exercise obtained on the alleys.

One rarely appreciates just how fine a town Richmond is until one has looked over the other towns in the United States. This is just as true of Richmond athletes as it is of anything else. We may not have the best ball team in the world, but they seem to play ball nowhere quite so well as "in Virginia."

And when you got away from it for a feed days there is always that feeling which the Germans call "helmwey" coming over you. Every day from new on look for some ne phenom signed up by one or the other of the clubs in the Virginia League.

Reports are plentiful from every city but Petersburg, and rumer has it that the peo-ple over there are working, but under cover, And the guessing bee is just as potent at tover was.

Up in Washington Joe Jackson is congrat-lating McAleer upon having a small squad. The Washington manager will probably have tweer men than any of the big leagues.

What McAleer really wants worse than anything else is a first baseman. Ungland will be back, but he is not exactly an ideal first sacker.

Jackson's argument in favor of the small squad is reasonable enough. He declares that where a man has a large number of recruits he is unable to give every man a chance, and for that reason is hard put to it to make a selection.

Where the squad is small he can pay more attention to individuals, look over the detants and come pretty nearly forming a fair estimate of the abilities of the several candidates.

Richmond has had experiences which more than bear out this line of reasoning. On several occasions some men have been let go who more than made good on other teams in this league and in oven faster company. The only reason they were let go was because the manager just couldn't give proper attention to them.

But argument can be advanced on the other side, and certain it is that under present conditions in this league it would be unwise, to say the least, not be get as many premising youngsters as possible.

Charlie Shaffer has been heard from. He writes sending his regards to all of his old friends, and asks them to watch him during the coming season. He is managing the St. Joseph team in the Western League.

The Hilltoppers, meaning Georgetown University, of Washington, are considering an invitation to visit the flowery kingdom. The people of Japan are anxious to have the collegians come over next summer and play baseball with a native team.

If the consent of the faculty can be obtain the boys will go, commencing the journey the latter part of June and returning about September 1.

Would be quite a jaint for the fellows, and at the same time a line could be obtained on how the little yellow fellows take to the great national pastime of America.

Now comes forward a scribe who says that interest in wrestling has not been killed because of fisking, but because its mysteries are unknown to the average onlooker, and he must depend entirely upon the decision of the referee. Well, of all the excuses—but what's the use. Simply a waste of words to say more.

wrestling have been so palpably and so ob-viously framed up that the public got "hep," and then the gate receipts began to fall off. Dutch Revelle has received his contract from the Highlanders, and has already sent it back with his signature. He will leave with the first batch of twirlers for the South, Dutch should make good. If he don't it's his fault. He has the samina and the ability. It's up to him.

Jack Johnson wants to bet everybody two to one that he can lick either Cotton, his sometime sparring partner, or Al Kaufman, or both. Well, Jim Corbett will be here to-day and well ask him. Then it will all be settled. If all the stories sent out about Carl Mor-ris are true, then Mister Johnsing had better look to his laure's. The big Westerner looks mighty formidable on paper.

The slayers of Stanley Ketchel will probably pay the debt. That's what they deserve. Don't want to prejudge the case, but there seems little evidence to justify the slaying of a good fighter and a fair adversary. All in all, one of the gamest mon who ever stepped into a ring.

Battling Nelson is in Washington this week showing at one of the theatres and teiling the natives why he should be allowed to have another chance at Wolgast. It's all right, so far as I am concerned.

Fred Tenney, former star on the New York Glants, but more recently manager of the Boston Nationals, seems to be having sorge trouble with the owners in Beanville. The trouble started over ten reported trade of Shean for Shefer. Vice-President Page, of the Boston club.

If this thing of star ball players jumping contraints or holding out for more money, with the stage as an alternative keeps unbaseball magnates will have to turn to the stage for recruits. The latest man to hold out is Sherwood Magee, of the Phillies. He has been offered a big salary to play baskethall, and issues an ultimatum to the effect that if the increase he asks is not forthcoming he will quit the game and start starring on his own account.

Not even Miss Poynter herself will deny that she has written a story which will start the pump going on one's storehouse of "cryables." It is pre-

But next to Miss Poynter, who certainly does carry off the honors, come Nettie Louden and Mildred Jeannett, as Bennie and Bessie Holly, respectively. They are children, but they act better than a whole lot of grown-ups.

The play is in four acts and four sets, each of which is a picture. It's a show with a moral, and will doubtless pack the theatre fon the rest of the week, and it should.

"Gentleman Jim" will be in the middle chair of the gorgeous "Crimson Trellis" first part; and theatre-goers will find that he is fully competent for the position. It is in the middle portion of the program that Mr. Corbett appears in white face and tells his interesting story of the Reno meeting between Jeffries and Johnson. This talk is not a simple description of the contest. It is the deduction of an expert athlete who was in charge of Jeffries's training camp for eight weeks prior to the contest, and is a graphic story of all those eight weeks of hard work. James J.
